Western and Northern Europe

- Germany: Good demand environment; Q3 volumes above 2011; energy surcharge announced for 1 November
- UK: Negative volume development due to recession, government austerity measures and bad weather, London is doing OK; further cost control initiatives implemented. Successful rollout of integrated IT solution as a base for LEO project
- Benelux: Better than expected cement volume development in Q3, however, still low construction activity – particularly in the Netherlands
- Northern Europe: Resilient domestic markets; solid results and pricing.

North America

- Cement operating EBITDA margin clearly improved compared to last year
- Cement prices up; first price increases of 6-10 USD/t are announced for 1 Jan.
- USA: Market recovery continues in Q3, but at a slower pace due to a tougher comparison base; aggregates volumes decline in Q3 driven by consolidation of shale gas activity and lower highway spending
- Canada: Solid cement volume development driven by demand from commodity industry. Pricing at good levels

HEIDELBERGCEMENT

Macroeconomic outlook 2013

Base case scenario: 3.6% global GDP growth, slightly higher than 2012 (3.3%)

- Economy in Germany and Northern Europe remains strong
- Slow re-balancing of euro zone; stretched reform and austerity path
- US recovery continues; “fiscal cliff” largely avoided
- Soft landing of China; continued growth of emerging markets in Asia and Sub-Saharan Africa

Downside risks:

- Euro crisis: Deep recession in euro area periphery
- US fiscal cliff: Automatic tax increase and spending cutbacks would significantly impact GDP and lead to a temporary recession
- Middle East conflict impacting oil supply

In the base case scenario, HeidelbergCement benefits from its exposure to Germany, the stronger European countries, the US recovery, and continued growth in Asia and Africa.

We are prepared to react fast if downside risks materialize!

They include statements about our beliefs and expectations and the assumptions underlying them. These statements and information are based on plans, estimates, projections as they are currently available to the management of HeidelbergCement. Forward-looking statements and information therefore speak only as of the date they are made, and we undertake no obligation to update publicly any of them in light of new information or future events.

By their very nature, forward-looking statements and information are subject to certain risks and uncertainties. A variety of factors, many of which are beyond HeidelbergCement's control, could cause actual results to differ materially from those that may be expressed or implied by such forward-looking statement or information. For HeidelbergCement particular uncertainties arise, among others, from changes in general economic and business conditions in Germany, in Europe, in the United States and elsewhere from which we derive a substantial portion of our revenues and in which we hold a substantial portion of our assets; the possibility that prices will decline as result of continued adverse market conditions to a greater extent than currently anticipated by HeidelbergCement's management; developments in the financial markets, including fluctuations in interest and exchange rates, commodity and equity prices, debt prices (credit spreads) and financial assets generally; continued volatility and a further deterioration of capital markets; a worsening in the conditions of the credit business and, in particular, additional uncertainties arising out of the subprime, financial market and liquidity crises; the outcome of pending investigations and legal proceedings and actions resulting from the findings of these investigations; as well as various other factors. More detailed information about certain of the risk factors affecting HeidelbergCement is contained throughout this presentation and in HeidelbergCement's financial reports, which are available on the HeidelbergCement website, www.heidelbergcement.com. Should one or more of these risks or uncertainties materialize, or should underlying assumptions prove incorrect, actual results may vary materially from those described in the relevant forward-looking statement or information as expected, anticipated, intended, planned, believed, sought, estimated or projected.
